

"I am very fond of prehistoric art and for many years, I have been visiting many archeological sites. Thanks to the REPPARP project and the launching of the European Network of Archeological Cave Art, I discovered the website and social media of the Council of Europe's Cultural Route on Prehistoric Rock Art Trails.

Through those instruments, I can get updated information and be aware of every news related to European sites where I can find prehistoric art. At present, there are more than 150 cave art sites from Southwestern Europe collected which is very helpful in order to plan my visits and fully enjoy my passion"

Emilio Muñoz Fernández,
Maliaño (Spain), 60 years old

Council of Europe
Cultural Route

REPPARP is a Sudoe project from 2000-2006 which led to the development of a territorial development network for the management and valorization of Prehistoric Art Sites. Thanks to this project, the Council of Europe's Cultural Route on Prehistoric Rock Art Trails has been created.